

EDITORIAL

It is with great pleasure that the editorial team launches the latest edition of the Goiano Bulletin of Geography the year of 2017. To reach this volume has not been easy, considering that the proposed policy agenda for Science in Brazil, with successive budget cuts, echoes in the dissemination of the results of academic research in scientific events, in general and specifically form, in the specialized journals. In the case of UFG, continuity of resources from Program for Support of Scientific Periodicals of the UFG for funding of journals, even before the general cuts of UFG's resources, is what ensures the maintenance of editorial quality of our magazine. Therefore, we look forward to continuing this editorial policy that is largely, led by Periodic Division, linked to UFG's editor. To our readers, we hope to understand over this new edition, the diversity of interpretations and the importance of texts for understanding of Brazilian current moment. If Geography, as suggested the geographer Paulo César da Costa Gomes, in his recent book Geographic Frames (Quadros Geográficos), is the expression of a specific mode and stand-alone to think and reflect on the complex reality, then journals can be understood with an efficient mechanism for the dissemination of this thinking - is this task that is sought daily by the Editorial staff of the Goiano Bulletin of Geography.

Good reading.

Leandro Oliveira Lima